THE AFTERMATH OF ELECTIONS.

Insurgents Hold Balance of Power in New Mexico.

Harmon, of Ohio, Is Well Pleased With Results.

But Woodrow Wilson Finds Little Comfort in It.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ALBUQUERQUE, (N. M.) Nov. 8.— Insurgent Republicans will hold the balance of power in the State Legislature, which will elect two United States Senators, according to practically complete returns on the election of members of the Legislature. Of the 24 members of the Senate, 12 will be "regular" Republicans and eleven Democrats and insurgent Republicans, with one seat in doubt. In the house, the "regular" Republicans have twenty-one, the Democrats and insurgents twenty-four and three seats are in doubt.

Should the combined Democratic and insurgent Republican forces muster a majority of the legislature it is expected that each faction will elect a United States Senator, each voting with the other.

In yesterday's election the insurgents and Democrats worked together and it is believed the alliance will continue in the Senatorial contest.

The returns give W. S. McDonald, Democratic candidate for Governor, a probable majority of between 1250 and 1500. It is likely many of the other Democratic State candidates are elected by small pluralities. The Republicans have elected Frank W. Clancy Attorney General and George Curry Congressman and probably R. P. Ervin, for Land Commissioner. The Legislature will be Republican.

BIGAND SMILE ON HARMON'S FACE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS, (O.) Nov. 8.— Basing his opinion on the results in Massachusetts, Kentucky and Ohio, and other points where Democratic candidates were elected yesterday, Gov. Harmon today predicted a national Democratic landslide next year.

"The results of those elections have pleased me very much," he said, "and I consider them a forecast of what is to come next year. It is the strong endorsement of Democracy that has been tendered by voters in recent elections."

When asked regarding the Cincinnati results, Mr. Harmon said:

"Personally, nothing could have pleased me better. I have fought for twenty-five years to free Cincinnati from the sway of Republicanism, and am delighted to find that the voters have spoken."

"Signs of victory for the Democratic party are evident everywhere. Next year I predict that this party will win the national offices, including the Presidency."

Mayor Grand Whitlock carried with him to victory the complete Toledo voter list, except for Police Clerk.

In Columbus the Democratic landslide which elected George J. Karp Mayor over Mayor George A. Marshall Republican, by a plurality of about 6000, failed to carry a Council of the same political faith as the Mayor-elect. The Democrats who secured the City Council, the Republicans eight and the Socialists four. The election of the Socialist Councilmen is without precedent in this city.

Returns show the Socialists have elected Mayors in two large Ohio cities, Canton and Lima, and that they have won the Mayoralty election in eight other cities. Toledo, Mary, Marion, Cuyahoga Falls, Mt. Vernon, Wooster, Portage and Marion's Ferry.

The Socialist vote has increased heavily all over the State.

Dayton and Cincinnati have elected three Socialist Councilmen. Conenant missed electing a Socialist Mayor by only five votes.

The contest at Canton was so close that Harry Schilling, Socialist, is believed to have beaten Arthur Turnbull, Democrat, by only three votes.

Corbin Snook, Socialist, was an easy winner at Lima.

In Cincinnati complete returns for Mayor show that Henry T. Muscat, Democrat, has been elected by a plurality of 2000. With him every man on the Democratic ticket has been elected. The women are rejoicing in the election of Miss Edith Campbell as member-at-large of the School Board. This is the first time a woman has held such an office there.

BRIEF REBRETS.

FROM WOODROW WILSON:

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TRENTON (N. J.) Nov. 8.— Gov. Wilson issued this statement today regarding the election:

"I, of course, deeply regret the loss of Essex and the failure to save the State, but I look forward with great interest to the next session as affording an opportunity to the Republican leaders to fulfill the very explicit pledges of their platform."

"If they do that the session should be productive of legislation of considerable importance and benefit to the State, and I shall earnestly hope for their co-operation in reforms planned in the interest of the whole State, which we are all sworn to serve."

Elections returns today make it certain the Republicans will have control of both houses in the Legislature. The Senate will stand eleven Republicans to ten Democrats and the House thirty-seven Republicans to twenty-three Democrats. The Democratic need thirteen out of seventeen Sheriffs.

William Browning, Republican, was elected to Congress from the First Congressional District to succeed the late Representative Loudenslager.

H. Orlin, a Democrat, was re-elected Mayor of Jersey City.

The tour of Gov. Wilson of the State in favor of Democratic legislative candidates does not seem to have had as much effect on the result as local conditions.

In East county, the stronghold of former United States Senator James Smith, where Gov. Wilson was instrumental in defeating for re-election the organization Democratic Assemblyman and Senator Osborne, for whose re-election the Governor made a special plea, were defeated.

Bergen, Morrison, Somers, and Union, which were represented in last winter's Assembly by Democrats, who were carried through on the Wilson wave, have this year all gone Republican.

SOME SURPRISES.

IN THE UTAH ELECTIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 8.—By the landslide which yesterday overturned "American" party rule in Salt Lake City, the Citizens' Non-partisan party gained the opportunity of being the first to set in motion a new scheme of government here—the commission plan.

By a majority of 4146 the entire Citizens' ticket was carried into office. The vote for Mayor was Park, 15,061; Bradford, 19,915.

Of the larger cities in Utah, Republicans were victorious in Ogden, where Fall, the Republican candidate for Mayor, won over his Democratic opponent by a comparatively small majority.

At Bingham, the customary Repub-blican majority was maintained.

In the smaller towns the Democratic and Socialist divided honors, the former making notable gains at Logan, Provo and Park City. The Socialists elected tickets at Murray, Mantle, Eureka, Ticino and Stockton.

The overthrow of the "regular" at the Republicans in the small towns furnished one of the surprises of the election.

The "American" party was organized to oppose Mormon control in law affairs and had been in power for over a year.

There is no question that the vote of the women electors brought out in extraordinary numbers by recent reform agitation, was responsible for the overthrow of the "American" party within the party which developed at the recent city convention site was a factor.

The election yesterday of Samuel C. Parks as Mayor and of four commissioners and an Auditor in Salt Lake City will be contested on the ground that the ballots did not comply with the law.

The content, it is claimed, will determine the constitutionality of the law passed by the last Legislature, which places Salt Lake under the commission form.

It has provided the names of two candidates for each office shall appear on the ballot, the other candidate having been eliminated at primary elections.

The State Legislature, in joint assembly, will have a Democratic majority probably of eighty-five, sufficient to disallow and declare the legislative acts of Oliver James

Curry Congressman and probably R.

P. Ervin, for Land Commissioner.

The Legislature will be Republicans.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Nov. 8.— Late returns indicate that the Republicans captured every State office at yesterday's election and that most of the counties of the State returned their usual Republican majorities. The only

Democratic victory of consequence was in the third congressional district, where Dan V. Stephens was elected to succeed the late Congressman Laitsa. Democrat Stephens' majority, however, was materially reduced from that received by Laitsa in 1908.

In Omaha, the county ticket, which received almost the entire attention of local Republicans, went Republican with the exception of Sheriff, to whom the Democrats elected their candidate.

The State officials elected were three

Supreme Court judges, two lawmarkers and a railway commissioner.

South Omaha elected Democratic police judge, but declined to agree to a merger with Omaha in one corporation.

282.

All the Republican candidates for county judges were elected.

Rudolph Blankenburg, independent

BIG PROBLEMS ARE REVIEWED.Annual Report of Panama Canal Commission.Masterpieces of Technical Solutions by Engineers.Cost to Date Is Three Hundred Millions.BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The great mechanical problems connected with the construction of the Panama Canal, which is to be opened to the government in January, 1915, pass in review in the annual report of the Isthmian Canal Commission just made public. The record of the year's achievements in the gigantic task that is being worked out by the Washington government, under Congressional appropriations that so far aggregate $825,871,485, includes:

Completion of almost three-quarters of Culebra cut. Total excavation of material from Culebra during year, 16,221,877 cubic yards, at average cost of $3.3 cents per yard.

Big plans laid for canal terminals, including storage of fuel, fresh water, and other supplies, repair facilities, etc.; Pacific terminal to have drydock, storehouse and coaling stations; practical completion of plan of all locks.

Embargo scheme for lighting the canal.

Safeguarding of the canal against big landslides.

PHYSICAL ASPECTS.

The report treats the physical aspects of the waterway with minute detail. Questions of tolls, form of government and character and extent of population to be permitted in the canal zone have been reported upon in separate sheets of the report already made public.

The locks have been a great problem. Designs for the approach walls at all locks, except one, have been prepared. Contracts in force at the beginning of the fiscal year were practically completed and new contracts entered into for a vast amount of work, which, it is estimated, will be required to complete the canal. Some of the paraphernalia needed to put the canal into operation. More than 540 tons of castings were made on the Isthmus. Building of the great lock gates—each leaf of which is fifty-four feet, eight inches high—was expedited. At each lock entrance, strong fences, which will be removed when the locks are turned over to the canal authorities, will be installed to prevent ships from battering down the locks.

A floating caisson gate is being installed for use in closing a lock so as to enable workmen to repair the permanent locks and the bottom sluices.

Canal illumination will be provided by range lights for establishing the dimensions of the channel, by side lights a mile apart, marking each side of the channel. Body and lighted buoys, built of reinforced concrete, will abound.

THE CULEBRA CUT.

Famous Culebra Cut is ten miles long and deep enough to receive the United States Capitol, dome and all. From this cut, despite the enormous excavation during the year, on July 1, last, there remained 35,515,140 cubic yards to be removed. Estimates of excavation necessary in this cut have been largely increased to allow for the great earth slides. Last year these slides had to be removed. Last year, these slides had to be removed, has been practically completed was 4,478,278 yards or over thirty per cent of all the material removed from the cut.

These slides have occurred where the material excavated was left on a slope steeper than the permanent incline will be and the trouble is expected to cease when the natural slope of the cut is reached.

Breaks have occurred on both sides of the cut where the underlying rock is of poor quality and is broken up and squeezed upward by the pressure from beneath and from the sides, interrupting the drainage and covering up the railroad track. To meet this condition, intermediate benches have been cut along the sides to distribute the top soil and reduce the amount of material to be removed. It is declared that when the bottom grade of the canal is reached no further trouble need be anticipated as greater stability will be given by the water.

"With both slides and breaks," the commission says, "the question is one of how much more work will be required, and whatever the feeling elsewhere, there is no apprehension on the part of the commission as to the final outcome among those acquainted with the facts." The commission thus answers predictions that the canal would be overwhelmed by gigantic landslides, preventing the execution of the project.

EXPENSIVE WORK.

The commission contends that it would be uneconomical to terrapin the banks everywhere in advance of the cutting, which would require a large part of that expensive work might prove wholly unnecessary. Deepening of the cut and widening of the lower reaches has progressed satisfactorily with less interruption or interference on account of slides than at any time since the work began three years ago. The slides have caused no increase in the total estimated cost of Culebra Cut. The Cucaracha slide covered 47.1 acres and the Culebra slide 46.9 acres, and the terrapin facilities for the storage and furnishing of coal and other fuel for use both ashore and ashore; the furnishing of fresh water to shipping; the furnishing of adequate and convenient fueling facilities for all oil tankers, as well as of all rolling stock, equipment and machinery ashore, and of storerooms for materials and supplies other than fuel after the completion of the canal.

The total appropriation made by Congress leave $1,829,521 of the estimated cost of the British compensation act of 1906, which recently had been investigated, when a question was asked as to its effect on the employment of men of advanced age.

In reply, Mr. Holder said that, regardless of the law, there was a marked discrimination against the aged—not in Great Britain alone, but throughout the industrial world.

"The man who is over 40 and who has a few gray hairs cannot get back when he once loses his job, but he can hold on if he has a place," he said. "It is the same here as in England, and it is the same in Germany and throughout the continent."

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS.

This condition was not due, said Mr. Holder, to any legislation, but was the result of economic conditions, and came of the general desire to derive the greatest possible product of the human being employed by others.

With reference to the extent of the compensation for death or injury, Mr. Holder said he thought the law should grant "all that the traffic will bear." He declared no death benefits should be less than $5000 and no injury award should be less than a day's pay of the ordinary compensation of the injured employees.

Mr. Holder was the last of the representatives of the railroad workmen to be heard. All of them had endorsed the general plan of the commission, and most of them expressed themselves as satisfied with the details, so far as they have been worked out.

The railroad attorneys then were invited to give their views. The first to respond was Robert J. Cary of the New York Central, who made an appeal for a moderate law, which would not require a great expenditure of money, but which would extend by the railroads. He did not believe that the Interstate Commerce Commission would permit an increase of rates to meet any enhanced expense on account of disability compensation.

URGES CAUTION.

Gardiner Lathrop of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe added the extension of the terms of the existing law to industries other than the railroads, contending that such a course was possible under recent Supreme Court decisions.

In this connection he declared, the railroads had been made the object of so much legislative attack as to render it difficult for them to meet necessary operating expenses and fair dividends, and, he said, he saw no possibility of getting any relief from the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Eight-Hour Law Interpretation May Keep Builders From Trying to Get Any New Contracts.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Peculiar interest attaches to the announcement that the Navy is ready to receive bids for new battleships authorized at the last session of Congress.

The probability is there will be no bidders January 4, 1912, is the date set for opening bids.

NEARLY ALL PRIVATE SHIPBUILDING CONCERN OF THE COUNTRY HAVE MAINTAINED NEGOTIATIONS WITH THE INTERSTATE COMMISSION ON THE INTERPRETATION OF THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW TO BATTLESHIP CONSTRUCTION MADE IT IMPOSSIBLE TO BID.

Since the recent interpretation of the law under which the eight-hour provision would apply to work done on docks or in shops the Newport News shipbuilding and Drydock Company, the only builder to submit a bid when the contract was awarded, has announced it will not seek a contract for either of the ships this year.

The two new vessels will be named Oklahoma and Nevada, and are technically numbered 26 and 27. They will have main batteries of ten fourteen-inch guns and will be "near" sister ships of the Arkansas and Wyoming classes.

They will be built of steel and will displace 27,400 tons displacement. It is understood the Oklahoma and Nevada will be slightly heavier.

FOR THE TELEGRAPHERS.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—An increase in wages approximating 6 per cent, reduced working hours and the sharing of a lump sum of $75,000 have been granted to the Baltimore and Ohio and the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railway telegraphers.

An agreement was reached with the telegraphers of the Western Union Telegraph Co., and the American Federation of Labor.

FINDS NEMESIS IN GRAY HAIR.Union Leader Says Man Over Forty Isn't Wanted.Testimony on the Employers Liability Measure.Railroad Lawyer Would Put All Industry Under It.BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—That an American cannot obtain a new position after he is 49 years old was asserted before the Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Commission today by Arthur E. Holder of the American Federation of Labor. He had been speaking of the satisfactory operation of the British compensation act of 1906, which recently had been investigated, when a question was asked as to its effect on the employment of men of advanced age.

In reply, Mr. Holder said that, regardless of the law, there was a marked discrimination against the aged—not in Great Britain alone, but throughout the industrial world.

A floating caisson gate is being installed for use in closing a lock so as to enable workmen to repair the permanent locks and the bottom sluices.

Canal illumination will be provided by range lights for establishing the dimensions of the channel, by side lights a mile apart, marking each side of the channel. Body and lighted buoys, built of reinforced concrete, will abound.

THE CULEBRA CUT.

Building of the great lock gates—each leaf of which is fifty-four feet, eight inches high—was expedited.

At each lock entrance, strong fences, which will be removed when the locks are turned over to the canal authorities, will be installed to prevent ships from battering down the locks.

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Socialism is a foreign idea," said David Starr Jordan in an interview after he had visited the City Hall and other socialist centers in Milwaukee tonight.

There are a great many kinds of socialism and Socialists," he continued. "My short stay in Milwaukee and a little investigation has convinced me that there are as many kinds here. As an idea it may progress, but when Socialists have to shoulder responsibility they will break up so far as Americans are concerned.

TWIST OF MIND.

There are a certain number who are bound to be Socialists from the roots of their minds. Out in California and on the Pacific Coast, however, the movement is largely foreign. It is that element which recruits the party. The final theory of socialism, the distribution of party property, I have no sympathy with. You can control the things which make the life of the city, but I have never seen any good result from cities trying to raise money. The going into a thing only to make money is entirely different from taking up natural monopolies.

Socialism is contrary to American ideals; contrary to our spirit of independence. This does not prove that the things they are urging are not right.

WHERE THE TROUBLE LIES.

Their trouble lies at the expense of taxors and home owner will be paid when they get into power and then the responsibility of running things. The people will be better satisfied and will profit by keeping the seeds of opportunities off the machinery of government. I do not believe that a man who can call the name of a socialist a fool, a plodder of rags and bad leaders for the people, and in return has been credited to your Socialists here, and since my mind I find that he not only admits that it, but Socialists here appear to be proud of it."

Louis Brewer Served With Legal Papers Growing Out of Daughter's Jewelry Purchases.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When Adolphus Busch, multimillionaire St. Louis brewer, reached the Hotel Plaza today from a steamer Kron Prinzessin Cecile he was served with a writ of attachment for $1000 sued out by Mme. Yodin, fashionable modiste, whose daughter, Mrs. Helen Loeb, of No. 401 Fullerton avenue, Chicago, was named in the because of the belief that he had in his possession property belonging to his daughter.

It is alleged that Mrs. Loeb purchased $100 worth of evening gowns from Mme. Yodin, paid $996 on account and ordered the gowns sent to Chicago address. When they were sent Mrs. Loeb offered a check for payment, but the express company, which handled the gowns, refused to accept a check, the gowns were sent back.

When Mme. Yodin, who repeated she had the bill settled, was KENOSHA (Wis.) Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Wilma Strom, aged 20 years, a resident of Wood Park, Ill., is at the home of William Irving here, suffering from burns received last night while taking part in an initiation into the local lodge of the Daughters of Reb-

The young woman was one of the four bearers in the ceremony, and one of the most solemn of the moral lectures, the wood alcohol which she carried, exploded.

Second her clothing was afire and the others members, a picked up a bucket of water and believing that it would extinguish the flames, poured it on her. In a few moments she was a human torch, and members of the lodge fled panic-stricken from the room.

The young woman fell to the floor, unconscious, and regained sufficient sense of mind to throw a strong hand over her eyes. Later she was removed to hospital.

Merriment.
JOLLY CROWD ENJOYS SHOW.

Cakes Center of Throng At Shrine Auditorium.

Merchants Try Desperately to Win Something.

Secretary of Grocers Is Blue Over Losses.

The largest crowd so far at the Shriners' household show, was there last night in the Shrine Auditorium. It was the Retail Grocers Association's night and the members of that organization were on hand 1999 strong.

They went to have a good time, and they had it. They went early and stayed late. When things began to grow dull they started some kind of excitement themselves, and did not depend on the bands and megaphone boosters to keep up the fun.

In the early part of the evening Moyses' negro entertainers gathered in the miniature cotton field at the entrance of the Auditorium and did their best to entertain the visitors by singing old plantation songs. This was carried many of the older men back to other days and to scenes which will always remain in their hearts, no matter how successful and happy they may be in their surroundings in the glowing West.

However, they were not allowed to listen to this music very long, nor just as the minstrels started to sing "Old Kentucky Home," the big bassoon band struck up and up-to-date ragtime time, the minstrels left the platform for the cake room, and the visitors sought other diversions. Some of them drew nearer the bandstand, while others scattered over the building to buy things from numerous pretty girls who were selling everything imaginable from chocolates to hair brushes.

JUST TO BE DOING.

W. S. Reimer purchased a pair of boxing gloves at one of the sporting goods; not that he needed the gloves; for he said he had no desire to test his skill with any of his would-be enemies, but he just wanted to buy something. He has been selling things until he is sick of it, he said.

H. S. Vreeland bought nine boxes of guitars and from one little maiden who was sweet on the 11-year-old boy in the booth, according to Vreeland, and he gave the toothsome sweets away to the first pretty babies he met.

In the Monte Carlo room, however, the attraction seemed more magnetic to the grocers. They literally swarmed into this awful gambling den.

A. M. Marcott threw a wooden ring over a China tea cup and saucer. At least he was told the ware was china and he tried to believe it. It was old Canton ware, the man in the booth informed him.

Edens caught a canary, a real live canary, and he took the bird all over the building, showed it the various exhibits and fed it nuts and cake. He would hardly speak to the ladies who wanted to buy the bird from him. Sell a golden bird which had captured in Monte Carlo? Well, not if he had his heart of it.

J. F. Faulding, secretary of the association, made a vow never to go to Monte Carlo again. He was blue because he spent nearly $1 and got nothing for it. He told several fellow members that he had learned a lesson and that it is wrong to take chances when one loses. It is awful, he said, to work a lifetime to earn a little fortune and then to lose it all at Monte Carlo.

Charles Joannes, president of the association, was one of the busiest men in the big showroom last night. He was besieged by a bevy of beautiful girls, from each of whom he felt compelled to take a taste of one of the forty big cakes. Hundreds of cake tickets were sold last night, those in charge saying that it was the biggest sale yet made since the beginning of the show. These cakes were sent in from the many hotels and clubs from Seattle to San Francisco. They are rich in substance and design, several of them weighing more than one hundred pounds.

The registration booth came in for its share of attention, and several men and women registered for the coming night.

The merchants did not forget the attractions on the outside of the building. They visited every side show, from the one in which Bosco sustained his well-earned reputation, for skiting things alive, to the tent under which the Wild Queen of the Fiji Islands stood with ivory teeth gleaming through an ebony physionomy.

Although tomorrow night is society night, there was no lack of society at the show last night, and hundreds of beautiful women in handsome gowns added to the attractiveness of the occasion.

AXTELL MURDER CASE.

Witnesses Testify In Stockton That Avery Saw Editor Follow His Victim "Out of the Garage."

AT A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] STOCKTON, Nov. 8.—Witnesses for the prosecution in the case of S. B. Axtell, accused of the murder of Charles Sollars, in Lodi, testified today that Axtell entered the garage in which Sollars was shot a moment after he had driven his automobile machine that Axtell took a position near the rear right wheel of the automobile while Sollars was bending over the hood of the machine and that Axtell fired point blank at Sollars wounding him in the back. Two students of the High School testified they heard the shooting and later saw Sollars run out from the garage followed by Axtell, who held the smoking weapon in his hand.

The prisoner appeared haggard in the courtroom. Not once did he smile at the witness stand, nor make any gesture. His wife sat beside him as she has done since the trial began two weeks ago.

Miss Geneva McElroy and Eva Axtell, who were in the automobile accident out of which the tragedy is said to have grown, were in court.

George Lemona testified he met Axtell coming out of the building and that he said, "You know why I have done this."

Miss Alice Pearson testified to having seen Axtell at the Lodi school on the morning of the shooting. She admitted she was a warm friend of Miss Georgia Henderson, niece of Charles Sollars. She denied she had ever heard that Axtell tried to kill Miss

One Application And The Hairs Are Gone

[Aids to Beauty]

Women troubled with fuzzy growths will be delighted to learn that a simple application of common powdered deodorant and water will remove every trace of hair without pain or injury. If the growth is very thick or stubborn, a second application may be required.

The deodorant paste is spread thickly on the hairy surface, and after two or three minutes rubbed off with the skin washed and dried. Druggists charge a dollar for an original ounce package of deodorant, but to those suffering with superfluous growths it is worth several times this sum to know of a reliable and quick way in which to permanently rid the skin of hair or fuzz without having to endure pain.

ARCTIC BABIES LONG FOR "COP."

WHITE CHILDREN SEE SEATTLE FOR FIRST TIME.

Born in Farthest Alaska, Modern City is Revelation to Them Best First of All They Want to See Real Blue-Uniformed Brass-Buttoned Policeman.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] SEATTLE, Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I want to see a policeman; show me one," demanded Master Nome Glavin when he landed from the steamer Victoria.

Out of the Arctic for the first time, the young Alaskan had looked forward first of all to seeing a real blue-uniformed, brass-buttoned guardian of the peace, such as the funny pictures show.

Miss Mary Glavin, ten years of age, had an eye for policemen and other interesting things, but in a quieter way. She, too, never has been in a big city.

They had heard a lot about cities. Their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. "Alaska Jack" Glavin, had a busy day today showing the children wonderful things.

Master Nome tried an elevator but didn't like it, so preferred now to walk upstairs. Master Nome was born in the city whose name he bears on the first day of the century. His sister Mary was born at Cape Woolley in the Arctic Straits. A blizzard was raging and for three days no doctor could reach the Glavin home.

"I don't know whether I like it yet or not," said Nome. "I haven't been here long enough."

CARUSO ENGAGED? SAYS NO!

"Million - Dollar - Voiced Tenor" Energetically Denies Fighting Truth.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Enrico Caruso, accompanied by his million-dollar voice and a few fellow Metropolitans operatic warhorses arrived for the coming opera season, aboard North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, today.

Caruso was asked about his reported engagement to Mme. Trentini.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Enrico Caruso, accompanied by his million-dollar voice and a few fellow Metropolitans operatic warhorses arrived for the coming opera season, aboard North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, today.

Caruso was asked about his reported engagement to Mme. Trentini.

Who is this Trentini?—said the gold-dusted tenor, throwing out his chin, wrinkling his eyebrows and twisting his mustache between his fat fingers.

"Of course, you must know her," said one of the interviewers. "Hal! of course, she must—not," boomed Caruso, "is it a man?" he asked when I do not know." Enraged? I am not enraged. It is all press agent. It is all for papers to make advertisement."

Viceroy of Tien-Tsin Refuses Demand to Surrender.

Federal Force Rout Mexican Rebels at Juchitan.

A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES
KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9.—A tapping on the window of his taxicab caused George E. Andrews, a real estate dealer, to get down. Blood came from Andrews's left hand as he stepped from the car and rushed to a drug store, crying, "My hand is off." The injured member hung from the wrist, almost severed, from the bottom of the taxicab, which was covered with blood. On the front seat, spread out to protect the cushion, was a bloody sheet.

Andrews was taken to a hospital, where physicians said his hand would have to be amputated.

"I became confused while riding in a taxicab," Andrews said. "When I gained my senses I found my hand was severely severed. I often carry a set about with me to tack up real signs."

LATE CHINESE NEWS.

KEN-TSIN, Nov. 9.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The Viceroy has decided to surrender Tien-tsin to the revolutionaries. He met the leading revolutionaries with the revolutionary government last night and, after an able discussion of the question, decided that Tien-tsin would not stand.

SHANNON TO STICK.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] State Printer Shannon and friends are emphatic in their denial of the report that he intends to leave the state. He met the leaders of the revolutionaries, who have been renewing in both the alleged authority of small Stinson. Mr. Shannon is in Sacramento.

WOMAN SUES BISHOP FOR HEAVY SUM FOR SLANDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OPEKA (Kan.) Nov. 9.—The controversy between Mrs. Carrie E. Cope and Bishop Moore of the Methodist Episcopal Church, reached a crisis yesterday when suit was filed in Shawnee County District Court against the bishop for damages. Mrs. Cope alleged in a letter to Bishop Moore that he had intended to injure her, as a citizen, as well as another, and that she was entitled to damages.

The suit followed the meeting of two Methodist bishops, Charles Smith, Portland, Or.; James F. Cope, Buffalo, N. Y.; John L. Newell, Omaha, and David H. Moore, Clinton, Iowa, today to discuss charges brought against Bishop Moore by an official of the Women's Home Mission Society. The funds controlled by Mrs. Cope and a legal entanglement surround a bequest of $10,000 by Mrs. Murray, a few years ago to Women's Home Missionary Society of the Kansas Conference of the Methodist Church. There was no such society as the one to which Mrs. Murray had belonged, and she is entitled to damages.

According to the bequest, nothing comes of all her promises. Nothing will, in my judgment. Mr. Jackson, attorney for Mrs. Cope, has written to the heirs to bring suit for the property. You are tried and beaten.

"Sincerely yours,
DAVID H. MOORE."

WALNUT CROP BEATS RECORD.

Santa Barbara Growers Estimate Value of County's Output in Excess of Quarter Million Dollars.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 9.—The walnut crop of Santa Barbara county this year will exceed $250,000 in value, said by growers to be the greatest in the history of the industry in this country.

The Santa Barbara Walnut Growers' Association already has shipped fifty-four carloads, valued at $157,000, which the association estimated to be about two-thirds of the crop.

Together with the shipments from Carpinteria, the association believes the total will be brought close to $300,000. The previous record was for 1904, when the total value of the crop was $214,111.54.

BOMB EXPLODES UNDER CAR.

Attempt Made in El Paso to Destroy Pullman Coach of Southern Pacific Train.

EL PASO (Tex.) Nov. 9.—An attempt was made to blow up a Pullman car attached to a westbound Southern Pacific passenger train at the Union Depot in this city about 10 o'clock tonight. A bomb about one foot long exploded with a roar and exploded under the middle of the car, which was filled with passengers en route to California.

No one was injured and no serious damage was done, the car proceeding on its journey later.

Southern Pacific detectives are making a rigid investigation.

BRIDE A SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULT.Wedding Dress of Gold Coin and Treasury Notes."Give Back My Bustle Made of Greenbacks" Says She.*But Judge Denies It and Her Claim on Husband.

A bustle made out of United States treasury notes aggregating well into four figures, and a bosom made of gold coin of the value in no smaller amount entered into the structure of the wedding dress, which Lucy Hagedorn Wurlitzer, human safe deposit vault, says she wore. Her appeal from the finding of Referee Helm against her claim on the assets of her husband was denied by Federal Judge Wellborn yesterday.

H. C. Wurlitzer, former proprietor of a market at Ninth and Main streets, filed a petition in bankruptcy eighteen months ago. He placed his assets at $16,492.91 and his liabilities at $12,121.17. Mrs. Wurlitzer set up a claim to $950 of the assets, which she said had been taken from her personal adornment of hard cash in order to run the market business. Her story of her manner of acquiring and wearing this clothing of collateral was so unusual that the court did not hesitate to express his disbelief of it.

The investigations of Referee Helm cast doubts upon the story at practically every point, but served to open up a wealth of detail indicating that, if manufactured for the purpose of getting money from her husband, the tale of the clothe of cash was a highly ingenious one. Mrs. Wurlitzer was ready with names, dates, account books, lists of bill denominations and numbers, a diary and endless details of the alleged loan made to her husband.

Mrs. Wurlitzer was the daughter of George C. Hagedorn of Garret and Fremont avenues, Cincinnati. According to her story, her dowry was given her in cash, by her grandmother at the time of her marriage to Wurlitzer. The grandmother, now dead, was Miss Margaret Hartlieb, a nurse who, according to Mrs. Hagedorn, was in the habit of keeping a fortune hidden in the family feather bed.

Mrs. Wurlitzer continued that, when her engagement was announced, the grandmother's matriarch was called upon to determine what we probably the most becoming bridal dress ever fashioned. In it were seventy treasury notes, for $100 each, about fifty of $20 each and smaller bills; some $2000 in double eagles and pounds of gold coins of lesser denominations. The total was over $10,000. This "dress" Mrs. Wurlitzer says, was made by the skillful needles of herself and her grandmother. They sewed the bills between layers of cloth and the gold coins likewise supplying the latter with silencers of cotton batting so that they would not jingle as the bride walked up the church aisle.

It was this unusual gown which Mrs. Wurlitzer wore before the commitment, as she set out for the discrediting testimony, and it was from it that the items of cash she claims to have advanced to her husband were taken.

In denying the claim of Mrs. Wurlitzer, Judge Wellborn dwelt at length upon the fact, as he saw it, that the investigations of the referee, the parents of the bride knew nothing of the supposed dowry, though Mrs. Hagedorn said that they were among the few who did know of it. The alleged donor, Mrs. Hartlieb, died the Longview Hospital in Cincinnati a year ago, but the referee found that to her ever dying had so large a sum to give as was claimed by her grand-daughter.

The Wurlitzers are relatives of Rudolph Wurlitzer of Cincinnati.

WILL PURGE REGISTER OF ALL NAMES FOUND INVALID.

COUNTY CLERK LELANDE announces that all deputy registrars must return their registrations to his office before noon tomorrow. Those who have not reported all their blanks by that time will be subject to summary action. Those who neglect to report at all may require the sending of warrants after them. The law requires that the City Clerk arrange all registrations alphabetically by precincts, within five days after the last day for registering and the immense numbers received will require all of that time. Hence the order that all be reported, together with all unused blanks, by tomorrow noon.

That the immense registration of Los Angeles, which has multiplied tens of thousands within the last ten days, contains a large percentage of invalid certifications, is the belief of all who are now at work trying to prevent the success of the Socialists' party. Evidences have been so abundant that the Good Government organization and the Citizens' Campaign Committee are forming plans by which an expert force of men, under authority of the city, will scrutinize the Great Register name by name, precinct by precinct, and find the facts in each doubtful case.

In addition, the Good Government organization will make a house-to-house canvass of every precinct of all persons eligible to vote, whether registered or not, in order to determine who are the legal electors of the city. It is announced that much of this work has already been done. This canvass will be compared with the names of the voters in the city, and the names not found by the canvass investigated. Though this is a gigantic task and involves great expense, the Good Government organization is sure that, through this

WEALTHY COUNTESS HERE FOR HOME AMONG ROSES.

WITH a small fortune in gems sparkling on her fingers and flashing from the folds of her handsome costume, Countess de Susini Saint-Angel, who inherits her title from both Spanish and Italian ancestry, arrived yesterday to make Los Angeles her permanent home. Though she was born in Cuba of Spanish parentage and was reared in Florence, Italy, it was from neither country that she came. For years she has resided in Boston and speaks English with almost a Yankee accent.

The passion of her life being music, she has devotedly studied the classic in opera for twenty years. Although she has acquired an exquisite culture of voice, she has appeared in a number of operas and has likewise supplied the latter with silencers of cotton batting so that they would not jingle as the bride walked up the church aisle.

It was this unusual gown which Mrs. Wurlitzer wore before the commitment, as she set out for the discrediting testimony, and it was from it that the items of cash she claims to have advanced to her husband were taken.

LILLIPUTIAN VISITORS.

Brother and Sister, Each Thirty-Six Inches Tall, Came to Los Angeles to Winter Tourists.

Charles and Eliza Nestle, reputed to be the smallest human beings in the world, have come to Los Angeles to be the guests this winter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Nestle of No. 1468 East Vernon. They are brother and sister and are only thirty-six inches tall. There is eight years difference in their ages.

Charles is an Elk and a Knight of Pythias. He has two medals presented to him by Queen Victoria. Their father was a large man standing over six feet, and their mother was of average size.

Although they have been around the world this is their first visit here. They are not in the show business.

It is a woman seen fit to wed a man who is crippled when he is meeting with success in life, she must not expect to divorce him if he later meets with adversity, according to a ruling by Judge Monroe in the Superior Court yesterday. In consequence, Bertice A. Smith failed to get a marital separation from A. D. Smith of No. 621 East Thirty-fifth place.

Smith, who cannot get around without crutches, acted as his own lawyer, after having filed an answer to his wife's complaint that he had not supported her and their 3-year-old daughter since February, 1909. His papers were written in long hand and couched in legal phraseology.

It was asserted by Mrs. Smith her husband is "able-bodied" and capable of supporting her. Smith replied that the court could judge from his appearance whether or not he is, and that his physical condition was wholly responsible for his not providing for Mrs. Smith and their daughter in accordance with the standard she set.

"I have to deny a decree," said Judge Monroe. "The defendant has shown his physical handicap, alone prevents him from making good, and that is not sufficient ground for divorce."

Mrs. Smith testified she has been working more than two years to support herself and child.

TO MAKE FRUIT PRODUCT.

The Frucrue Company, which intends to manufacture in this city a product of California fruits, was organized yesterday, with Joseph Messer president, T. J. Carrigan vice-president, A. D. Warner secretary-treasurer, J. H. Metcalfe general manager. The factory will be at Nos. 111-113 Market street.

THREE FINAL JURORS SWORN.One Other Accepted and Will Probably Serve.*Day Marks Great Advance; Both Sides Jubilant.*Fifth Venerie of Forty Names Drawn Tomorrow.

Three jurors were secured and sworn yesterday in the McNamara case. One other was passed by both sides. It is believed he will be accepted as another permanent member of the panel.

The three men who will help try James B. McNamara are H. D. Green, a Pomona orange grower; Byron Link, a Pasadena business man, and R. D. Bain, a retired carpenter.

HE WANTS TO KNOW.

Man Stops Officer Who Is Chasing Fleeting Individual to Demand Reason, and Now Faces Charge.

Dan Hoben's curiosity compels his appearance in the Police Court this morning on a charge of having interfered with a patrolman in the discharge of his duty. Had Hoben been patient he might have been able to read in the newspapers this morning the information he desired, but he was not, and now no one will read it and the public must be content with learning about Dan.

Patrolman Cato was pursuing a suspect on Central avenue yesterday intent upon learning what the man had been doing. Suspect and officer were running their best. The commotion attracted Hoben's attention.

"What's what's the matter?" he said to a bystander. "Tunno; look as if they are running to me. What do you think?"

At that moment the fleeing man passed Dan, who asked him the cause of the excitement. The question one was too busy to answer.

Then came the officer, his coat flying in the wind.

Dan grasped the tails and when the patrolman had come to a full stop he said pleasantly: "Please, Mr. Policeman, what's the matter?"

"That's just what I was going to ask the other fellow when you interrupted me," answered Cato. "Come on and we will ask the captain."

Clark were excused by Judge Bordwell upon consent of both sides. The former was much distressed over the serious illness of his mother, and the latter is suffering from heart trouble, according to his physician.

The fact that at least three men are definitely chosen as jurors, gives an added interest to the case. The last man of the fourth venire was examined yesterday and the members of a fifth venire of forty will be in court tomorrow.

Attorneys for the prosecution and defense are redoubling their efforts to give each venireman a careful examination. Now that there is a nucleus of a permanent jury, the court attaches hope that the other nine men can be secured during the first part of December.

When court convened yesterday morning there were five jurors in the box—Bain, Green, Clark, and Clark, Judge Bordwell announced that he would have the five sworn in to try the case unless the defense had other challenges to exercise. Darrow and Davis consulted for a long time. It is said that one was opposed to Mendenhall on account of his supposed interest in Detective Burns. But finally it was announced that no more peremptories would be exercised.

RAILWAY SEIZES RARROYO CHANNEL.

PROPERTY THREATENED BY SALT LAKE ROAD ACTS.

Company Appropriates Bed of Proposed City Parkway and Uses It for Gravel Pit, Erecting Dyke and Dam That Already Threaten Bridge and Land.

That the Salt Lake Railway coolly seized the bed of the Arroyo Seco and used it as a gravel pit, damming the channel and constructing a riprap that threatens the foundation of the bridge at Avenue 26, was the report made yesterday afternoon by City Deputy City Engineer Johnson to the Board of Public Works.

"The Salt Lake Railway uses the south part of the channel of Arroyo Seco from Avenue 26 east to the trestle of the railway for a gravel pit," said Johnson, "and to prevent the pit from flooding, it has constructed a dyke of sand bags, and also a riprap under the trestle. The diversion of the water is causing damage to property along the northern bank of the arroyo east of Avenue 26 and the riprap may cause the channel to shift far enough in the next few years to threaten Dayton avenue."

The most immediate damage threatened is to the bridge across the arroyo at Avenue 26. "The Avenue 26 bridge cannot be considered safe from a wash-out at its northern end," said Johnson.

The Board of Public Works directed the secretary to communicate the facts to City Attorney Shenk immediately. Shenk will be asked to take the necessary legal steps to remove the obstructions, and to see that the railway is compelled to act in such a manner that should any damage to property result this winter from the riprap, and the dyke constructed by the company, the responsibility of the company will be understood.

TO BOOST PARKS.

ASSISTANTS FOR COMMISSION. The Park Commission yesterday noon was given a committee to operate with it in educating the public in regard to the public parks and parkways and the beautification of the city.

The City Club has taken the matter up and the Board of Governors yesterday appointed the following committee of nine to work with the commission: Charles McKechnie, chairman; F. W. Blanchard, Mrs. A. S. Lobinger, Miss Oliver C. Bryant, Fred L. Parker, Leslie R. Hewitt, Dr. W. A. Lamb, Haines W. Reed, Mrs. Charles F. Edison.

Blanchard was the first chairman of the Arroyo Seco Association, Mrs. Lobinger is president of the Woman's City Club, and both he and Mrs. Bryant are among the original members of the Arroyo Seco Association.

AFTER MILK DEALERS. HEALTH COMMITTEE ACTS.

The Health Commissioner and his Advisory Committee have begun a crusade against milk dealers who do not conform to the laws of the city, and there is to be a wholesale cancellation of licenses unless a reform is begun among the milk men.

The Advisory Committee yesterday revoked the license of Joe Renetti of San Fernando street for ten days, the revocation to be made permanent unless his milk yard is thoroughly cleaned. The inspector found a pig and piglet thirty feet from where the cows are stabled.

Amos L. Steiner, in the Hebrew Market at Ninth and Los Angeles streets, were said to have a dirty place and to have no kind of arrangement for cleansing and sterilizing their bottles. They were warned, and so was A. Goldstein of Ivahoe.

CEASE TO KICK.

HOSPITAL WILL NOT SUFFER. After President Hubbard of the Board of Public Works had explained to the Board of Supervisors and to Superintendent Whitman of the County Hospital yesterday just where the new relooding garage station is to be placed, west of the junction of Pasadena and South Pasadena lines and 500 feet from the trestle across the Arroyo de los Posas, the objection of the county authorities were withdrawn.

A trip to the location was made and Hubbard showed how the loads of garbage will be run into the proposed building, unloaded there and that there will be no odors from the work. Dr. Whitman, who had feared that the odor would make an intolerable condition for patients at the hospital, said that he now finds there is no occasion to protest.

TO RESTORE HIM.

MAY BE A COP AGAIN. When John Howard Fuller, a patrolman in the police department, was found guilty of having been in subordinate to a sergeant some time ago, the charges having been pressed by Sergt. Hackett, the Police Commission dropped him from the rolls. Yesterday Chief Sebastian recommended that the Civil Service be requested to restore Fuller to the position list, and the commission directed that the request be made.

Sidney Swanson, a policeman who was suspended on August 31, charged with having accepted a bribe, and who since then has been reinstated twice and suspended once, asked the commission to allow him his full pay since August 31, as he had been exonerated by Justice Summerfield. The commission agreed that he was entitled to it, and directed that he be paid.

SAYS VAREY HIT MAN.

H. L. Varey, License Inspector, was charged by Samuel Goodman before the Police Commission yesterday with having beaten Goodman when the latter, Goodman says, he was arrested by Varey and made to pay a fine, although the attack on him had been made by Varey.

Frank Minimatus, the Jap janitor who shot and killed Francis Boggs in Edendale, October 27, was formally held for trial by Police Judge Ross yesterday. Minimatus smiled, but had nothing to say.

The Oil Industry.

CALIFORNIA OIL IS INCREASING.Forty Thousand Barrels Is Excess Each Day.*Addition to Stocks Is Source of Worry.*General News of Interest from Oil Fields.

It is impossible to conceal the fact that the present over-production is drawing the attention of the thought of all producers and marketers of oil. The continued flooding out of the fields of the State, and persistent and extensive efforts of operators to add to this flood are causing all of them to take notice.

It is believed that the October statement of the California fields will show a larger number of drills at work than in September. This means an indefinite addition to the present estimated surplus of 30,000 barrels a day.

While there is a gradual increase of market demand, it is not in proportion to the increase in production.

As a result of the present condition, it is pointed out that many of the oil producers are in straitened circumstances. In fact, it is asserted that there are few operators outside their concerns that are not now faced with funds to meet current demands.

The big marketers are putting forth every effort to take care of the situation by providing storage, but the time is beginning to vex them in view of the fact that there does not appear to be any end in sight. The Associated Oil Company recently decided to build three more concrete reservoirs at Coalinga, the Independent is trying to get its storage tanks in shape as far as possible, the Standard Oil Company is carrying on with its best efforts at storage.

The present daily surplus going into storage is estimated at 30 barrels, which means the consumption of a million-barrel reservoir month.

In decreasing the situation there is no means of effectively curbing this great production except by general shut-down of the wells, which can only be brought about by marketers refusing to take any oil from the producers unless they do it by contract. Recently the West Coast Lumber Manufacturers Association and the National Manufacturer's Association, operating on this coast, voted to close down all the mills for a period of 60 days. This action has already resulted in taking approximately 300,000 feet of lumber off the market. It is contended that such a move will apply as much to the oil industry of California.

It is also pointed out that more unity between the marketers and producers would result in much better control of the oil industry.

The Guaranty Line Company management has decided that a pipe line from the oil fields to Southern California is the most practical method of getting the oil to market.

The oil is in storage, it is now reached and prompt contracts of any size and kind must begin to move from the oil consumers to give protection to the present situation.

WATER COMPANY'S LUCK.
ROYALTIES FROM OIL.

Bringing in by the Amalgamated Company of two new wells on the Fullerton field secured by the Anaheim Union Water Company at its old reservoir site, has brought up the stock of the water company. The new Amalgamated wells are not yet at the producing point, but when they have reached the oil point, the first well of the group will be carried down 200 feet and the well was bottomed and closed.

The same company stockholders turned to the early bringing in of new wells which the Amalgamated is getting down closer to the oil point. The development to date covers a considerable area of the reservoir and determined that a dozen wells will be possible on the new wells before the expiration of the lease.

In the meantime the water company is deriving far more profit from the present production of the Amalgamated and the stockholders are looking forward to even greater profit as new wells are in the producing stage.

HICKMOTT OIL CO.

Engineering the new wells which the Amalgamated has completed in every detail. It is determined to keep it up to date with the latest schemes.

Oil men look with interest upon the scheme.

The Standard Oil Company has determined to use twenty-four acres on the field of Kettleman for the purpose of meeting a demand which has been persistent for some time.

Mr. Davies, whose lease is located in the Coronation property, has recently brought in a good well and the oil is now down 1700 feet and is expected to go to 2500 feet before getting into the Coronation lease.

Mr. Buckley, president of the Mexican Petroleum Company, has reached the end after an extended eastern tour. He stopped off at Stanford to see the recent visitors to the city and the town of Taft.

He is now in the northern fields, the first since his return from an extended trip.

P. M. Tucker, a painter, who lived at the Hotel Brennan on South Main street, was instantly killed yesterday morning, in the Z. L. Parmelee building, No. 720 South Broadway, when he lost his life while working at the top of the elevator shaft and fell to the basement. His watch slipped from his pocket and struck the cement flooring, without even the crystal being broken.

Tucker was a member of the Bort & Tucker Company, painters and decorators. He was trying to throw a rope across the shaft to attach it to a pipe when he fell.

In passing the third floor, the body struck a pipe and was inverted. Tucker struck the head on the basement floor. Death was instantaneous.

DEFENDS ITS MILK.

The French Valley Condensed Milk Company yesterday filed a general denial of adulteration or misbranding, as had been charged. It is the allegation.

Youngsters and their mothers of Pasadena will be out in force Saturday afternoon, when the Egan School, of this city, opens its Crown-of-the-Valley branch in the ballroom of the Hotel Maryland.

The opening, which is scheduled for 2 o'clock, will be signified by an entertainment by children from the parent school, at the Hamburger Majestic Theatre building in this city.

The school will be held at Pasadena every Saturday afternoon at 2, in the Maryland.

The teachers there will be three:

Alfred Allen, Mme. Matilda and Richard Kruger.

Mr. Allen is perhaps the best-known of the three in this city, where his literary work, his plays and his criticisms have been appreciated for several years. He will teach expression and the "Life Studies" which he originated, which have been highly successful here.

Mme. Matilda will have charge of the dancing.

Mr. Kruger will teach fencing, a defensive art in which he holds several championship medals.

SCALPER PLEADS GUILTY.

Receives Poor Advice from Officials, He Alleges, and Now Goes to Jail to Atone.

Charles Jordan, a railway ticket broker, pleaded guilty in the United States District Court yesterday, having defended the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Salt Lake and the Southern Pacific Railway companies, by offering B. R. Claywell of Huntington Park, a scalper's passenger ticket good for a round trip for him and wife from Los Angeles to Wichita. Jordan faced two indictments and Judge Wellborn sentenced him to thirty days in the County Jail on one, and a single day on the second.

The offense of Jordan is technical, as it is said, in connection with the he had sought the advice of attorney before engaging in the sale of tickets and been informed by them that what he proposed to do was no violation of the law. The particular offense to which he pleaded guilty was sending tickets to a scalper, offering to sell the tickets for $9. Jordan had already been in the County Jail three months.

NOT YET BUT SOON.

Another effort will be made this morning in the United States District Court to start the case against Fred H. Thompson, who it is alleged approached $15,000 that Orlando F. Aitken had stolen from the Los Angeles postoffice. Jud Rush of the defense does not expect to finish his work in connection with the Overacker murder trial in Santa Ana before today.

Judge Wellborn deferred yesterday, however, that nothing would be allowed to delay the case more than a day.

BAD BUSINESS.

Two life guards have been arrested on a charge of robbery. Training for years in order to save a life under some possible emergency and then deliberately working an injury to lives not otherwise endangered is like spending $100 in some extravagant purchase of an unnecessary article and then walking nine blocks to save a 5-cent street car fare.

THE SOURCE.

James J. Hill hits the nail on the head when he says that the average political nostrum is advised by the men who vote for these expenditures rather than by those who pay any considerable portion of the taxes. He predicts that an increasing disposition to change the distribution of wealth by legislation will exhaust capital without renewing it and will educate the public to spend lavishly, rather than to work ardently.

SHREWSBURY CLOTHING.

In Manchester, England, by a chemical and not expensive treatment, flannel and woolen goods have been rendered fireproof and some 10,000,000 yards of this non-inflammable clothing has been put upon the market. A complete list of the number of deaths attributable every year to the contact of flimsy garments with some unexpected spark or flame would prove an unanswerable argument in favor of a general use of fireproof material for wearing apparel.

We are bound by law to protect our theaters with asbestos curtains in case a fire starts behind the proscenium. Why not go a step further and protect our individual bodies with fireproof underwear in case a flame attacks our outer clothing? Science has now shown this material to be easily provided, and common sense would suggest we take a quick advantage of so obvious a safeguard.

Women, by the nature of their dress, are especially liable to the horror of being burned to death. Yet in most of the cases where dresses have been set on fire the injuries have been confined to the cuticle, and a covering of fireproof underwear would have saved many valuable lives.

An asbestos suit for firemen, when fighting the flames in a burning building, would seem to be an inevitable part of every fireman's outfit. Yet no such outfit, we believe, is to be found among the safety devices used by any municipal fire department. Fire every year is becoming a greater menace to human life and so simple and practical a protection as an asbestos garment deserves the close attention of wearers and wearers of clothing. A suit of heavy asbestos armor, to be part of the traveling gear on our final departure for the next world, suggests the formation of a company destined to rival in time the immense output of the Standard Oil.

YALE AND HARVARD.

Yale and Harvard, two great American universities, were formerly at such deadly enmity with each other that President Horden of the New England society admitted at a banquet that as a boy he traveled 240 miles by stage coach in going from Boston to New Haven to avoid going to Harvard University, which was across the bridge.

The animosity between the two colleges was religious in its character and grew out of the fact that Harvard was prejudiced against Yale because its head voted to install a minister "whose opinions upon the vital, pivotal, fundamental doctrine of eternal damnation were unsound."

The Civil War did much to bring Yale and Harvard together, for the graduates and students of both fought side by side on many battlefields. Their enmity was perpetuated and strengthened when both joined in opposing the free-silver craze, and now they are antagonists only at regatta and baseball and football matches.

Both colleges have been liberalized into cordial fraternity and both were formerly as Puritan in spirit, almost as rigidly as Andover, which expelled Ben Butler because of a somewhat irreverent, but entirely logical letter that he wrote to the head of that seminary. It seems that the president had preached a Calvinistic predestination sermon, in which he asserted that probably not one sinner in twenty would be elected for salvation, that the other nineteen would be sent to the fuel pile to enhance the glory of the Almighty, and that the rigors of punishment hereafter would be increased in proportion to the opportunities which the sinner had enjoyed on earth of religious instruction. The rule of Andover was that every student should attend divine service three times on every Sunday. Ben Butler asked to be relieved from compliance with this rule. He said that on the 6-per-cent. basis of salvation there would not be enough of the article to reach all the professors, that of course a mere student had no chance and, since he was billeted for a berth in the hold in any event, he did not wish to increase the amount of caloric that would be allotted to him by enjoying excessive religious facilities at Andover.

The president in reply excused young Ben Butler, not only from attendance on Sundays at the chapel, but from attendance on week days at the college.

Willie Moore says the only way a man can fly across the Atlantic is for him to go six miles high where there is no disturbance of the atmosphere. Wonder why Bryant never tried to make it?

WORKERS TO DECIDE. The Mayor and Councilmen to be chosen next month will not be elected by the brass bands, the bearers of red torches and the singers of the "Marseillaise" hymn. They will be elected by the stalwart workers—union and non-union, closed-shop and open-shop, who, in the quiet of their homes, shall have discussed the situation with their neighbors and their co-workers and reached a deliberate conclusion.

The sober second thought of the voters, and not their first and hastily-formed impressions will determine the result. Business and not sentiment is now on the front seat of the wagon, holding the reins. Not "big business" alone, but little business. The workers, when they think it over in the quiet of their homes, will see clearly that there is in Los Angeles at the present juncture no time nor place for socialistic and labor-union rule. They will see that, with the depths of the river all about them, there is no time for swamping horses. They will see that, if the credit of Los Angeles shall be submerged by a tidal wave of socialism and she cannot obtain the money to complete harbor improvements at San Pedro so that deep-sea ships can tie up at the wharves, the inevitable result will be that the deep-sea ships which come westward through the completed Panama Canal will pass us by on their way to San Francisco. They will see that a failure to obtain the money to complete the Owens River aqueduct and utilize its electrical power will paralyze industrial development and bring the prosperity of the city to a sudden and disastrous halt.

The first, the inevitable, the effect of such a half will be felt in the homes. The dwellers in the palaces have reserved resources and, although fortunes may be wrecked, yet there will be no such suffering as will come to the dwellers in the bungalows. The worker cannot eat unless he earns, and he cannot earn unless there is work for him to do, and if building is checked and factories and furnaces are shut down and commercial activity is lessened there will be less work for the worker to do.

It needs no gift of prescience to foresee the inevitable consequences of placing the government of Los Angeles in the hands of the socialistic leaders. Their ardent desire to better the condition of the workers may be conceded, but their methods would be a mist. They are utterly, hopelessly, irredeemably wrong, not in their honest purposes, but in their ill-considered, and impracticable plans. Again and yet again the Times presses upon the consideration of the socialistic leaders that the prosperity, the very life of their city depends upon maintaining its credit so that it can market $17,000,000 of its bonds with which to complete the public improvements now under way. Failure to obtain the money will necessarily involve a present abandonment of those improvements. A triumph of the socialistic ticket would so shatter the credit of the city that it could not obtain the money.

An endorsement of Alexander or a support of Harriman for personal reasons is not now the question. It is a question of industrial prosperity that confronts us. The decision of this question is not with the politicians, or the corporations, or the banks, or the dreamers, or the experimenters. It is with the people whose homes are threatened and whose means of livelihood are menaced. The conditions which environ us are so plain that no man who stops to think can possibly misunderstand them.

Workers, think it over! If you are convinced where your best interests lie, make it your business to convince your neighbor and urge him in turn to convince his neighbor. Help to create an endless chain of voters that shall encircle Los Angeles with its protecting links.

POWER OF MIND.

Matter is inert, mind is active. This form of matter is changed by the creative power of mind. There is not an excavation wrought by man, from a posthole to the Panama Canal, that was not first created in the mind of man before it was wrought by the muscles of man. The dome of Saint Peter's was swung in air by the thought of Angelo before it was physically accomplished. The paintings of the old and the new masters existed in the minds of the artists before a brush was applied to canvas. The Central Pacific road was built in the minds of Judah, and Stanford, and Huntington, and Hopkins, and the Crocker before a rail was laid on the mountainside. The mind of the carpenter telegraphs to the flexors and extensors of his right arm to raise the hammer and strike the nail. The mind of the laborer directs his muscles to lift the spade and dig the canal. Mind directs everything from the picking of a strawberry to the building of an ocean steamer. The dollars of the capitalist, the labor of the worker, and the tools and machinery with which he works are all merely instruments of production used by a directing mind. If a million dollars in gold and a warehouse full of machinery and tools were placed at the disposal of a thousand workers they could not raise a potato or make a spool of cotton thread without a mind to order and direct their operations.

Education and exercise improve and enlighten and make more potent the mind, even as exercise and diet and practice make more potent the muscles of the body. The educated mind of Ben Hur, while working as a galley slave, enabled him to escape the deformity which was the lot of the other workers at the oar by daily changing sides. The intelligent laborer accomplishes more than his unintelligent comrade by "taking advantage" of his work.

It is the difference in minds that produces the difference in human conditions. The mind of an Armour starting in life as a farmer's boy leads him in the direction of becoming a great captain of industry and a multi-millionaire. The dull intellect of a worker in the stockyards leaves him, after a lifetime of strenuous toil, in the same condition that he was in when he was a young man. All the Upton Sinclairs and Edwin Markhams and Jack Londons and Prudhommes in the world cannot write a stupid man into brilliancy, a foolish man into wisdom, or an ignorant man into knowledge. "It is not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are thus or thus."

There are sane minds and insane minds. There are dreamers and there are doers.

Cassette Versus Caesar.

Well, Honor is the subject of my story.

I cannot tell what the weak male-men of the species

Think about politics, since, as a rule,

They have some prompter with a thinkless

think-tank

Do what they call their thinking for them.

But for my single self—and I would have you know

I am not single, but of my own volition

I had as lief not be as live to be

In awe of such a thing as myself.

Since I have found him out.

I was born free as Caesar; and twice as handsome;

And in my teens I learned to walk across a room

And not fall both ways over both my feet,

as Caesar did.

In all our contests I have found him easy:

Beat him at tennis; taught him perfume to dance;

Tied him in golf; talked him blind and dumb;

And had him jumping sideways when it came to bridge.

Poor man; he thought because his grandma could not swim.

No woman could. Some fool professor in a he-man's college

Told him the malformation of a woman's collarbone.

Made it impossible for her to throw a stone.

Caused fixions on the rudiments of both her feet

So that she could not swim.

Then once, upon a soft balmy day,

The mild Pacific laughing on her shores,

He said to me, "Dar'at thou, Cassette, now Leap in with me from this end of the pier And swim ashore!" Upon my word,

Although I hated sore to wet

My red and yellow striped bathing suit,

I plunged in, and shouted, "Come in, fellow!

The water's fine!" And so, indeed, he did,

Making a lobster dive and landing on his back.

With such a smacking jolt as winded him,

The tide was running out like snow in June,

And carried him on past the thirteen buoy,

And there he lost his nerve, his breath, his stroke,

And bellowed, "Help me, Cassette, or I sink!"

Sure, Mike! I had to turn around, and ere

The life-saver could take off his uniform,

Put on his trunks and find his swimming bags,

Did I the tired Caesar bear to the not distant strand.

And this man, whom I pulled through the kelp surf,

Is now become a hero and thinks that every girl!

Has fits of joy and falls in love with him,

If Caesar carelessly but nod at her.

You should have seen him once, in Illinois,

Where he did have theague, in a temperance town,

Where we could get the quinine powder,

But not a thing to mix them in.

How he did shake, until like castanets,

His rattling teeth chopped up his brittle words.

That tongue of his, that bade the Romans print

His speeches, featured in the morning papers,

Alpa!" it cried. "Give me some drink, Titius!"

As a sick girl. For all the medicine in his dispensary

Was boose. Ye gods, doth amaze me

A man of such a feeble temper should

Be so misled by Woodyard Stripling's pomies

As to believe himself that he is it;

The one lone pebble on the Rhinestones Beach.

Now, in the names of all the gods at once, upon what breakfast food doth this, our Caesar, feed?

That he should think that he can vote his ward

Without us women? Huhi!

Safety and Danger.

A president emeritus of Harvard University has observed with pain that "very few pugilists are made for life or disabled in their prime fights, while every year young men of ability and promise are made lifelong cripples by football. It is a pity, which ever way the president means it, but he has observed correctly. That is because the eleven play the game, while the pugs play the crowd. There is never any question at the end of the game which team won. It is about never settled in a prize fight whether or not the man who gets the money won the fight. The school teams play in earnest. The fighters fight in fun. What's the use of hurting anybody when the money comes easy without risk or damage?" Real play is far more earnest than hard work or fighting. A soldier was once looking at the lumps and dislocations on the hands of an old-time baseball player. "I have fought through a score of battles," said the soldier, "and haven't a scar on my body; never got a scratch; and you're nearly crippled by your play."

"Sure," said the ball player. "We stand out in the open and play; we try to get in the way of the balls; we don't jump behind a tree when we see one coming; we hurry right where it's going to hit."

It's the fighting man who takes all precautions to insure against getting hurt. But if you fall in football—well, you never would get through a game if you tried the least little bit to take care of yourself. As one Polio remarked concerning the game, "Running in bear it that the opposed may be aware of thee."

Suggestions.

A European writer observes that the United States has no need for a great armament on land or sea, "because she has no dangerous neighbors." Oh, yes; but we have, though. Mighty dangerous. But they are not so dangerous to us as we are to them; that's what makes us so peaceable.

"Father," said Rollo, looking at the banner floating above the customhouse, "what does it mean when the stripes on the flag run up and down?" "That, my son," replied his father, for it was he, "is a famous signal in the customs code and is interpreted, 'America expects every man to pay his duty.'

"The empty gun," remarked the village philosopher, "is the most dangerous thing on earth." "Not any more dangerous than the loaded dice," commented the village traveler, who had just walked back from San Francisco, "whither he had journeyed for his wife's health, wisely leaving her at home."

"And there's this about it, my glass of wine," he said, "that it's not a quarter of

Stanford and U. C.
RECORD CROWD
FOR THE GAME.

Twenty-First Annual Scrap
Will Be Hummer.

Both Teams Will be Chosen on Thursday.

Big Annual Stanford Rally
Tomorrow Night.

BY EDMUND PUGH.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 7.—The largest crowd that has ever witnessed a football game on Stanford Field already is assured for the twenty-first annual struggle between California and Stanford, which is to be held here Saturday afternoon. Only a few hundred seats remain unsold of the 15,675 that were put on sale, and every ticket will have been sold before Thursday.

Graduate Manager, Burbenk has had the south end of the field graded, and at least 6000 persons will be able to get a peep of the field from that vantage point. The attendance at the last game here, two years ago, was 12,900. This year it will be about 15,000, the total number of people that will be admitted to the grounds. It is probable that many persons will have to be turned away on account of lack of accommodations.

The attendance at the game at Berkley last year was 22,000, and broke the record for California Field.

The teams that are to clash Saturday are to be chosen Thursday afternoon. A horde of cardinals and blues are coming along rapidly, and it is probable that the Cardinal will be represented by an aggregation that will make California travel at top speed. Capt. Ebs and ex-Capt. Dole appeared in suits yesterday afternoon. A. F. and Brown also are running into gear, since with these four man the team. Stanford has by far a better chance to win than it had last year. The California team is in excellent shape and spirits. On account of the two victories that California has won in the last two games with Stanford, the Blue and Gold students are prone to believe that all is over but the shouting. At the practice at California yesterday, there was a poor turn-out on the bleachers. On the side lines were Judge Jordan, Coach McNamee, "Lance" Harris and Ashley and Dzwizinski, of last year's team. Including these men, the full variety of last year was on the field.

The annual rally at Stanford is to be held Thursday night. Thursday afternoon the student body will be selected to form the Cardinal team will appear on Stanford Field in the new uniforms they will wear in the big game. Before the rally, the campus will be lighted with red fire. Members of the faculty, students, faculty, members of other teams, coaches and trainers will address the meeting. After the rally, the students will serpentine in the inner quadrangle and then go to the baseball field, where the hilarity will continue about the blue bonds. The freshman have erected a pile of inflatables, twenty-five feet square and nearly fifty feet high.

Visitors from Los Angeles and other parts of the State already are beginning to arrive on the campus. Football is the sole topic of conversation at both universities.

NOTER.

R. McMahon was added to the training table squad at California. Tuesday. Twenty Rugbyists are now included in the select bunch from whom thearsity team will be chosen. McMahon has designs on the half-back berth, but it is not probable that he will succeed in ousting Monte Morris, the veteran in two intercollegiate games.

A drop-kicking contest is to be run off at Stanford next week. Theco-Hopkins, president of the board of trustees, and "Billy" Ebs, '04, have offered medals for the two best drop-kickers in the Cardinal squad. The faculty athletic committee and coaches are to be the judges of the contest.

"Mow" Mitchell, '10, of Los Angeles, captain of the Stanford football team two years ago, was among the first of the former Cardinal players to receive the ax. He arrived at Stanford Monday.

The students at both of the northern universities are rejoicing on account of the amicable settlement of the dispute that arose regarding the selection of a referee for the big game.

Saturday. T. E. Evans of Vancouver, who was chosen for the annual university committee, is one of the best Rugby players and officials in British Columbia. He came to California with the "Double V" team this season and played in the first game against California. He was captain of the Vancouver team that played the northern universities two years ago. He is also a member of the Vancouver football team.

For the seventh successive time the Brown brothers will act as time-keepers. E. Brown is a graduate of California and is now a Superior Court Judge at Sacramento. D. Brown is a former Stanford student. The flagmen will be C. F. Laumeier of Stanford and G. Bell of California.

Pearl, of the team, who plays breakdown in the California scrum, has developed wonderfully this year and is now regarded as the most valuable player among the blue-and-gold forwards.

Evens, '13, formerly of Pomona High, will play wing on the California team in the big game Saturday, from present indications. Evans, who has been good in the full-back berth and if he is retained there, Evans will take Pearl's old place at wing.

Impromptu football rallies have been occurring frequently at Stanford during the last two weeks. Old-timers on the campus believe that the intense enthusiasm points to a surprise similar to that which occurred in the 1905 game, when Stanford, although counted out of the running by nearly everybody, defeated California, 12 to 8.

LOS ANGELES HIGH WATER TEAM READY.

The water polo team of the Los Angeles High School is rapidly taking form under the leadership of Tom Howlett, and in two weeks will be open for games with any of the high school squads in the South.

Last night Capt. Howlett said he would like to arrange a series of three games with the recently-organized Santa Monica High School team, to take place before the Christmas vacation. He is anxious to hear from the captain or manager of the Beach team at once.

Full-back Is Riddle of the Line-up.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES:

BERKELEY, Nov. 8.—While the Rugby team of the University of California, which will meet Stanford in the great intercollegiate event of the year, next Saturday, on Stanford Field, was going through its last workout today, the student body turned its attention to the annual ax, a custom established in 1897. At that time Stanford introduced the famous "give 'em the ax" yell and appeared at a baseball game of the intercollegiate series bearing a huge wooden ax by way of illustration. California won the game and followed up by capturing the ax. Since then it has reposed in a bank vault in Berkeley and brought forth annually, just before the football game, for the ax rally.

The football men will appear tomorrow night at a rally in their honor and the following day will go away from the campus for a twenty-four hour rest. Their destination has been kept secret.

There is little uncertainty tonight as to the California lineup next Saturday, although the official announcement will not be made until tomorrow.

The only question was of full-back. It was reported tonight that Price would play that position in which event Peart, the fast wing man and back kicker on the team, will play his full game at the left side of the back field.

The lineup probably will be as follows: Front rankers, H. Phleger, Carter, C. Phleger; Center rank, Hamer and Hardy; rear rank, Morris and McNamee; half backs, Morris, five-eighths, Elliott (captain) and Stroud; three-quarters, Watts, Allen and Peart; full-back, Price. If Peart plays full-back Evans will take his place at wing.

DENNIS HOT MATCH WITH RIVERS.

Eddie Dennis, who is matched to go the ten-round semi-final with Hahn on November 15, is about one of the most sensible boxers seen in this end of the State in many a day. He would like to get a match with Rivers, but as that is impossible at present Eddie decided to go into a preliminary bout with the local right hander whom he could do.

"I think I can beat Hahn easily," Eddie declared last night. "If I cannot beat a boy who fights a preliminary, there is no use in me trying to thrash Rivers."

Dennis has an idea that since he beat both George Morrison and Tommy Dillie, he should be allowed a chance at Rivers, and he may be given this if he beats Hahn decisively.

Tony Caponi would like nothing better, he writes, than to come here and fight any man he can find. The local club could pick out for him. As far as Tony's heart's desires may never be gratified. Even Jim Flynn knocked him out.

CAMPUS BRIEFS

Owen R. Bird

The Knights of the gridiron are having a great time this week in the South, North, East and West. The season is now at its height and every name counts for the championship in the various conferences of the country.

In our midst the riot is awful. Oxy and her Tigers have gone crazy in practice this week after the showing made by Pomona last Saturday afternoon against Whittier. The Tigers are to be the delegates again this evening.

This Pomona-Oxy game looks like the one best bet of the season.

Thought Pomona is fair, they are to go up against one of the greatest line defenses in the South during the game, and, to gain ground, it looks as though the ends would be the only place to attack.

Lutz at full has been doing some great booting, which will add materially to the strength of the defense, but any way you take it, the game will be a terrific battle, fought from early afternoon till the shades of nightfall, a battle in which American college manhood will be put on exhibition under one of the greatest strains which comes to a college man over four years of his course, to win a championship.

Pomona is taking it a little easy this week, as the Redlands game Saturday will be something of a practice romp. The Pomona game in the South is the only one of the big games of the year against Whittier. The Tigers are to be the delegates again this evening.

This game should be the best of the season and in fact one of the best ever played in the South. The Tiger team will outweight the Sage Hens, but the two are equal in size and skill.

Roundabout.

ALVINA, THE COSMOPOLITE.Allen at the Start, But Turners Couldn't Say It.Has Sung in French, German, Italian, English.But Hasn't Mastered Spaghetti and Sorrows Therefore.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

Deanne Alvina is the cosmopolite of the Lambard opera troupe.

Alvina is really only a non-duo.

The right one is Allen—Janet Allen, and she hails from New Jersey.

But where the spaghetti is long and the salami tree flourishes under the tropic moon they can't say Allen at all. So it had to be Alvina. She is also Alvina in voice, and at heart—Allen.

With the globe-trotter Maggi, who wears Austrian clothes, speaks with an English accent, smokes South American cigars and prefers American sports, she is a distinct variety in the list of Lamhardi songbirds, who usually congregate desperately about Meinherz Garau and beseech the little restauranteur to tell the interviewer that it's a fine day.

Alvina, however, has chased the last of art around the bush, not only in Italy, but in France and Germany, and last year was acclaimed in New York, where she returned after triumphing abroad.

Her last successes abroad were at the Komische Oper in Berlin.

Janet Allen was seized with the opera bug only yesterday, just a few years ago. She got a good position in a church choir, and they told her she had a great voice; whereas she longed, like Alexander, for other worlds to conquer, and accordingly went abroad.

Period of sturm und drang.

Then she learned French so that it sounds Parislike, anyway. I'm no judge of parley-voo, so I can't tell for sure, but hers seem to be the real goods.

Then she submerged herself in German, too.

And she has returned home still able to speak English.

I wondered about what I would talk to Alvina.

The place of the American in art, for instance?

That's good stuff, but it doesn't exactly seem to belong in the Pink.

The American girl abroad?

Well, there are lots of them abroad, and they all come back all right, so that's not such a sensational news-story after all.

Her favorite opera?

Horrors!

So I left it to Alvina.

Quite unconsciously, Alvina is as active, as various and ambitious as Mary Garden. But she abhors imitation.

I have made a dreadful discovery," said she, "which I fear will seriously interfere with my career."

"And that is?" I wondered if she had sprained her high-bust.

"I never mastered the proper way of eating spaghetti."

This is indeed a tragedy.

In order for a singer to really arrive as Aida, Santuzza, Nedde or Leonora, the spaghetti must be completely subjugated, controlled—tamed.

Those hands that divinely chant "Aitona vittoria" and those golden strand of spaghetti in her eyes and another around her neck, while five-curly back on the plate, two fall to the floor and half of one gets into her mouth, is an anomaly.

The secret of such a person is built on the hand.

There is a fatal defect, somewhere, in the union of her dramatic conception, inspirational impulse, musical feeling and laryngeal technique.

She is riding for a fall.

The princess is indeed to "O Patria mia," but after that she had best look out. She is liable to forget her lines, lose a switch or bust on a high note.

Spaghetti is one of the bases of art. It is a foundation, and that which is erected without foundation is a bad thing for the insurance company.

There are extenuating circumstances in the end case of Alvina.

One must remember that she was born Janet Allen, and Allen is not supposed to be a part or parcel of a Metropolitan table "choice."

Allenstein was the start.

Alvina—Teatro di San Carlo, Naples.

D'Alvina—Bois du Boulogne.

Alvina—Unter den Linden.

Now with such a combination, you can hardly expect the poor girl, if she doesn't know how to abate the spaghetti in its garlic lair.

She is an all-national affair.

She is slender, mobile of face, with big, expressive, wavy hands. People with little hands are good only in poetry. Those girls in pictures are lover's imaginations. It's a good thing for Alvina's art that she has hands that are not small.

She is to sing Thais tonight in French.

Practically, this is the greatest solo round in grand opera.

Mrs. Charles H. Metzger, the particular, fussy, long-haired Metropolitan critic, says Deanne is the real artistic thing, so.

Here's to Thais and Redbank, N. J.

THE FRUSTRATION OF FIELDING

Being a Painful Episode in the Present Golf Tournament.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

FIELDING J. STILSON is still wondering how it happened. He went forth to the tournament a warrior bold, armed to the teeth with every weapon of knowledge, trained to the last ounce with all the wealth of dietary wisdom known to science, happy in the consciousness of physical perfection and muscular glory—and behold, a cruel fate sees him vanquished in the first round, without the capture of one single hole to mark his worth.

Know this, then, that this great man, one time president of the Board of Education, all time master of the wisdom of books, and possessing an exact and unyielding faith in the supremacy of knowledge, as became the hero of a mighty brain, brought his indomitable mind to bear upon the science of golf. One had, but to study the subject with proper application, train one's body to the necessary condition of physical strength, diet one's tummy with the nourishment prescribed by the athletic heroes of the hour, exercise one's muscles with unfailing perseverance, focus one's eye with mathematical precision, and one could not fail to carry off the honor of the day.

Fielding J. Stilson is a very serious man—and golf is a very serious game. Behold you then the perfect co-ordination. Therefore when the club cup tournament was announced to take place on the links of the Los Angeles Country Club, our hero saw the realization of his great ambition well in sight.

With the wisdom of the athlete, he took form—to aid him; he selected a rigid diet and went into hard training. Eggs, lots of eggs, at times when they are expensive and invariably stale. Milk—and, unaccustomed by rum, milk can be a very rigid diet indeed. Marmalade and our hero never did have the necessary pale for the proper appearance of marmalade. Whole wheat bread for any length of time, and he'll only in the great cause.

IN, OUT AND CAUGHT.

Whittier Boy Who Escapes From State School and Foster-Father Is Captured on Street by Patrolman.

Lynn Wood of Burbank was arrested on Spring street yesterday by Capt. Connors of the State School at Whittier, and will be taken back to that institution this morning.

Wood escaped Tuesday night, and made known that fact to his foster-father, Isaac A. Wood, of Burbank, early yesterday morning by appearing in the latter's bedroom about 5 o'clock.

Lynn wore a gray coat, brown trousers and a gray cap, and when asked where he had obtained them, said he had bought a store. He was home in the house until 10 p.m., learned that a clothing store in Burbank had been entered, and then the elder Wood took the young man in hand and started for Whittier on a car. Upon reaching this city, Lynn said he wished to sit on the open seat, and was given permission. Isaac Wood remained inside, and the youth jumped off. Connors found him.

Buncoed.

CANNED DRAMA LURES VICTIM.

ENGLISHMAN PARTS WITH COIN TO TWO CROOKS.

In Answer to Advertisement He Invests in What Seems to Be a Good Moving Picture Business Opportunity—Buys Films and Finds They Are Fakes.

H. G. Riley, an Englishman, recently across the water, was made the victim of a bunco game yesterday, by a fascinating woman, and a smooth man. He was duped to the extent of $150.

The game is so old that none of the up-to-date sharps, for sweet conscience sake, ever attempts it. The victim was lured to an alleged business office by an advertisement, and talked into investing. The proposition looked gilt-edged and Riley was soon digging in his jeans for the coin.

Last Monday Riley read of an opportunity to invest a small amount in an amusement venture, and hastened to the address given. The woman who answered his knock, and as the door opened Riley stepped into a seemingly prosperous business office. Immediately the spider commenced the spinning of his web.

This man said that he was in the moving-picture business, but had been stranded by a dishonest partner. He declared that he still possessed the paraphernalia to give moving-picture exhibitions, but that his former partner had taken the films.

Two fifty dollars would be sufficient to begin, he said, and these could be obtained for $75 each. An investment of $140 would put the show on its feet again, he thought, and he offered to give Riley a half interest in the proceeds, and the paraphernalia if after considerable deliberation Riley agreed to put up the cash. Then the beautiful woman came on the scene.

To his new partner the stranded woman said that he knew where he could buy the equipment. He mentioned a woman who lived in a hotel near Third and Hill streets as the owner. Riley proposed that they interview her. They did, and the films, which he later found to be fakes, were bought by Riley for $140.

Before leaving the woman's apartment Riley signed an agreement that in the event any legal trouble arose over the films he would not prosecute. Owing to this he would have lost the chance of ever recovering any of his money. Deputy District Attorney Graham took the case up, but the man and woman who made the deal with Riley are understood to have left the city.

Cards and Reception.

Mrs. A. T. Newcombe, wife of Dr. Newcombe of Pasadena, gave a large party at the Annadale Country Club yesterday afternoon. The reason d'etre of the affair was ostensibly bridge, played on the sheltering terrace with a peculiarly distracting view to draw one's attention. Revolving and trumping your partner's trick skillfully, especially in such circumstances.

Lynn wore a gray coat, brown trousers and a gray cap, and when asked where he had obtained them, said he had bought a store. He was home in the house until 10 p.m., learned that a clothing store in Burbank had been entered, and then the elder Wood took the young man in hand and started for Whittier on a car. "Arts and Crafts."

The Arts and Crafts Exhibition at the Ebell Club, beginning on the 29th inst., is to have the patronage of society, and receptions will be held on the Monday and Wednesday evenings.

A notable feature of the affair is to be the honors table, upon which clever and absolutely original work will be exhibited. Hector Allot and Ernest Bachelder have been selected judges, and Mrs. John H. Francis will be in charge of all the arrangements. At the meeting to be held this evening the reception hostesses will be decided upon.

Society Voter.

Wherever one goes one hears society women discussing the burning question of the vote. And these newly-pledged voters are certainly enjoying their new prestige to the full. They declare the men have never paid them the attention of their lives.

One little lady, several times a member of the Friday Morning Club, and therefore understood as a person of influence, is simply being besieged by men who are not serious in matters political.

On the first morning after the primaries, she breakfasted in her pajamas (yes, it does sound rather shocking), but clever, influential women have been known to do worse things than that) and a visitor of the German variety was announced before 8 a.m. She donned a wrapper over the pajamas and received him. He 21.

Bridge Party.

Mrs. John Kahn and her mother, Mrs. Caspar Behrendt, and Mrs. Sam Behrendt, gave a formal invitation for a bridge party and reception at the Hotel Alexandria, for November 15.

THREE JURORS SWEORN.

be arranged in a way satisfactory to the defense and prosecution.

This procedure left Bain, Green and Kenyon in the box. They at once took seats in the box row and eyed with curiosity the line of talesmen drawn to fill the nine vacant seats.

DEFAT THREE WEEKS.

Several of the talesmen appeared afflicted with deafness. Two got off on that account, and others declared that they were suffering from various ear troubles. One man was asked how long he had been deaf. He groaned a laugh when he replied, "Three weeks."

The drawing in the box was as follows: Clark McLain, Pasadena; K. Bryte, No. 129 Summit avenue; John Redfern, No. 1639 Stanton street; Edward H. Royce, No. 262 Summit avenue; George Green, Avenue 22; William R. Beardsey, Duarre; Brewster Kenyon, Long Beach; F. W. Bennett, Long Beach; Henry G. Bunnell, El Monte.

Bennett was excused because of deafness and Charles Roth, No. 865 West Jefferson street, was put in his place.

Royce first said he was deaf and when that did not appear a hearing test was given. He declared he would not consent to a defendant if the death penalty would result. He was excused and W. E. Henry of Covina took his place.

Henry stated positively in response to the question put to him by the court that he did not believe in hanging. He was the only one who voted for a verdict of guilty in a capital case. Henry was excused. His place was taken by Howard E. Swett of Pasadena.

Brewster Kenyon of Long Beach apparently made a favorable impression upon the defense, and it was felt he was fairly a member of the State Legislature, but is not now actively engaged in politics. He stated he was interested in land deals and investments.

Kenyon said he served as a paymaster during the Spanish-American War. He has lived in New York City, but has passed about twenty years on the Pacific Coast.

"Have you any opinion about the present case?" asked Darrow.

"I have an impression, but not an opinion," said the talkerman.

"You distinguish do you between an opinion and an impression?"

"I regard an opinion as fixed and requiring evidence to remove," said Kenyon.

He added that he had read in the newspapers about labor unions, and stated he had never felt a personal interest in the subject.

"Are you in sympathy with the attitude of The Times upon labor questions?" asked Darrow.

"No, I am not."

Under added questioning, Kenyon said he knew that members of labor unions occasionally resorted to violence. He also stated that he thought strikes were sometimes justifiable.

THINKS HIGH EXPLOSIVE.

He said that when he first heard of the destruction of the Times Building he formed the impression that it was blown up by a high explosive of some kind. At the present time, however, he said he had no definite opinion as to the origin of the disaster. Kenyon volunteered a little incident that occurred during the following the disaster while he was trying to make his way to a Broadway office. He said he passed the roped inclosure just behind two men with badges. He heard them discussing the terrible affair. One said that gas couldn't have caused the disaster, and that the explosion evidently originated near the north side.

"Did what you heard cause you to form any opinion?" inquired Darrow.

"No, I don't think so. It was merely the talk of strangers. I went away a short time after that and lost track of the case for the time."

He stated he had not read the report of the investigating committee and was not impressed by the statement attributed to Burns.

"I could listen as receptively to the gas theory as to the dynamite theory," said Kenyon.

"Have you and special desire in this case?" asked Darrow.

"No, I only want to see justice done."

The talesman answered a number of questions as to the weight of evidence and was passed for cause by the defense. Deputy Horton asked a few questions and quickly passed Kenyon. Unless the prosecution interposes a peremptory challenge later on, Kenyon will doubtless sit on the panel.

AGAINST UNIONISM.

George S. Green, who lives on Avenue 22 and is chief teller in the First National Bank, was next interrogated by Darrow. While not agreeing with The Times on some points, the talesman said that he was prejudiced against labor-union methods and had been for about seventeen years.

"And of course, you are prejudiced against strikes and strikers?" said Darrow.

"I am."

"Did you talk about this case at the bank?" asked the lawyer for the defense quite unexpectedly.

"I merely told my associates that I was summoned on this panel," replied Green. "I had to make some arrangements before coming up here."

Under questioning with one of the bank officers, the latter had said that it was not likely that he (Green) would be retained on the panel because of his views on union-labor questions.

Darrow tried to make Green say that he had contributed to some special fund of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association. Green said the only money he knew paid was the monthly dues. He went on to say that he believed the Times Building was destroyed by dynamite criminally applied, and that he had placed considerable reliance in the statements of Burns and others.

Green was challenged by the defense. The prosecution did not resist and the banker was allowed to go. His place was taken by D. Sexton of Alhambra. Sexton was the last man on the fourth panel. He appeared very satisfactory to the defense, but the State seemed to have a doubt about his belief as to the strength of circumstantial evidence.

Sexton stated that he is in the real estate business with an office in Los Angeles. He is also interested in ranch property.

In Nebraska, where Sexton formerly lived, he held various elective offices. He has also held office in Alhambra. Since he has never been arrested particularly on labor questions, he entertained no prejudice against unions. He had heard various explanations of the cause of the disaster, but personally had not formed any opinion. He was quickly passed by the defense.

Horton gave a long examination as to his feelings about circumstantial evidence. The court also interposed a number of questions. Sexton finally said that he would convict if the evidence was strong enough, though he disliked to find a person guilty on circumstantial evidence. He apparently had no conscientious scruples on the subject, but believed that direct evidence is the stronger.

The District Attorney may recall Sexton for additional examination this morning.

LAND ENTRIES ARE HELD UP.

HOMESTEADERS MAY LOSE ALL IMPROVEMENT WORK.

The President has taken away, therefore none but the President can give that which is no longer of use to Uncle Sam—near Banning.

There is trouble among the entrymen of desert and home lands in the Maricopa Indian Reservation, north of Phoenix. Homestead entries and all of the entries made and allowed by the local land office, have been held up until an order is issued by the President declaring certain land there open to settlement.

The lands were originally withdrawn from settlement by President Hayes in 1877, and some of the territory was afterward included within the boundaries of the Forest Reserve. Later on an order was issued by the Secretary of the Interior, declaring that much of the land should be eliminated from the operations of the order, as it was not needed for the purposes of the Indian tribe. When the filings had been allowed by the Los Angeles land office, the General Land Office at Washington ruled that the lands could be withdrawn by an order of the President, could only be restored in a similar way, and ordered the cancellation of the entries.

There is no way of telling off-hand just how much land is affected by the operation of this decision, but it consists of over numbered sections, the Southern Pacific Railway having possession of the odd numbered sections. Nothing can be done until President Taft restores the land to the public domain by executive action, and meanwhile all improvements making or contemplated by the entrymen will cease.

Now we have 11-11-11.
